WHY NOT TRY AEROPANE HOSE CARTS AND TRUCKS?

Why worry now about automobile fire wagons? The thing to do is to wait three weeks and get brand-new aeroplane hose carts and trucks. They are sure to come. Just think of the possibilities. An alarm comes in. No time is lost fumbling over the traces or handling two-ton horses. The gallant lads jump into the car, twist a lever and are off. They needn't even slide down a brass pole—just have the machine hitched outside the window where they can get aboard easily. On the way there would be no danger of smashing up buggies or turning over a street car or two. The air would be open for unlimited speed.

Arrived at the scene, the brave boys need just drop a line of hose to the plug, release the clutch of the propeller and the engine now starts to pumping without even a stop. Or in case of small fires, by circling over a convenient chimney they could pitch a lead grenade down to the source of the trouble, and the thing would be over without even soiling the front street carpet. But most thrilling of all would be a rescue. A woman hangs screaming from a sizzling window sill, the trembling crowd cries to her to hold fast. Captain Blatham, of No. 23, darts up, up, up. He circles. He stops. A brawny arm reaches out from the car, clasps a terrified figure, and with a swoop the machine drops gently to the nearest drug store for restoratives. The water tower will soon be an extinct species, but fires will be better spectacles than ever.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY JEROME SEEKS VINDICATION.

The announcement of District Attorney Jerome, of New York, that he will have himself named by petition for a third term in office has stirred up no end of comment in New York, and out of it. The fact that Mr. Jerome's office has jurisdiction only in Greater New York has not prevented him from being much in the public eye outside of that bailiwick. And the effort he is making to secure a third term is being watched with keen interest all over the United States. In a sense, Mr. Jerome is a national figure rather than a local one.

In view of the criticisms which have been heaped on Jerome, he has to be given credit for a large measure of courage, not to say audacity, in coming forward a third time to submit his case to the people. If defeated, he will be ruined politically. On the other hand, his re-election would have to be looked on as a personal triumph or no mean order. Gossip is afloat to the effect that Jerome is on the slate of Leader Murphy and Tammany Hall for district attorney. While many of the admirers of Jerome refuse to believe he will allow himself to be taken up by Tammany, there is a strong indication that there have been some interesting negotiations between the district attorney and Tammany, carried on in a most informal way. Of course, if Jerome does go over to Tammany it will mean that nearly every independent voter will drop away from him, and he will be widely criticised for having turned his back squarely on the professions he made in his earlier campaigns. It is true, however, that the friends of the district attorney say if Tammany names him as its candidate it will be solely because he is looked on as the strongest candidate.

Prior to his last election Mr. Jerome made sweeping promises, and many of the men who voted for him then think he has failed substantially to fulfill them. One of the questions of the New York municipal campaign will be whether Jerome has "made good." It will be urged against him that Governor Hughes subjected him to a long investigation in the nature of a trial, that a large part of the press has persistently been flinging at him for not doing his duty, that his allowed big malefactors to escape, and that he has sought to make up for his shortcomings by spectacular conduct in spectacular criminal cases. Under such attacks it is natural that a fighter like Jerome should seek vindication. He has almost no other course left. While he can easily earn more money than he does in office, it is entirely natural that he should seek to avoid the appearance of having to quit under fire.

SENATOR LODGE AS A LITERARY RIVAL TO DR. ELIOT.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, fresh from wrestling with the tariff, and still in the exaltation of spirit that must come from having obtained free hides and certain advances in the duties on cotton, has now risen into the literary limelight. This time it is, in a sense, as a rival of Dr. Eliot. Not long ago Dr. Eliot set the whole reading world agog by prescribing a five-foot shelf of books the daily perusal of which would insure a good measure of broad culture.

Now, Senator Lodge is giving his judgment on literary values and has picked out what he regards as "the best of the world's classics" to the extent of ten octavo volumes. Senator Lodge does not attempt to go into the field of poetry. To use his own language, he has tried "to give examples from all periods and languages of western civilization of what is best and most memorable in their prose literature."

He has selected, in conjunction with Francis W. Halsey, excerpts from the writings of about 240 authors, both ancient and modern, and has arranged them in chronological order by countries, beginning with Greece and following with Rome, Great Britain, continental Europe, and America. While Senator Lodge has selected productions from many more authors than Dr. Eliot, it is stated that his list includes all the authors given by Dr. Eliot except two, John Woolman and William Penn.

Senator Lodge's work will be looked forward to with no small interest by scholars and students and the readers of good things in literature, the more so because it has certain matter of a biographical and explanatory sort. Moreover, Dr. Eliot's much-mooted five-foot shelf of books has awakened a wide interest in the question of what are the world's best books and literary productions, both from the literary viewpoint and from the standpoint of the busy man or woman who wants to know the essentials of the best books and yet has not the time to explore through a wide range of reading matter.

ACCIDENTS AT THE INDIANAPOLIS AUTO RACES.

Testimony given before a coroner's jury assembled to determine the cause of the accident at the Indianapolis automobile races last week should receive the serious consideration of State and municipal bodies from one end of the country to the other.

An official of the races admitted that the track was not completed when the drivers were given the word to spin around the course at a speed which would be considered dangerous on a railroad train, protected, as it is, by rails to guide it. It was known, according to sworn testimony, that the track could not possibly be completed on the day set for the races. Interest in the box office receipts, however, took precedence over human life. A postponement of the races might cost the managers of the races money. Pulling the races off on time, even with a death-inviting track, avoided the necessity of turning patrons away from the box office. One portion of the track was so faulty that a hospital was erected at that point, a memento sign that terrible injuries and possibly death might be encountered there.

In these advanced days everyone should welcome the development of the automobile, provided every precaution is taken to protect the lives of the contestants and the public. The promoters of the Indianapolis races admit that they started the races knowing full well that the track was not in a proper condition to admit of speed contests. The toll of death should have been a lesson for other communities. Races should be permitted only after it has been determined beyond all question of doubt that every possible element of needless danger has been eliminated.

MOVE TO FILL THE WORLD WITH COOKS.

Dr. Wiley is venturing into squalid quarters when he insists that no marriage license should be issued unless the would-be wife knows how to cook and "takes a solemn oath to practice what she knows."

The rule that the wife should be the cook is medieval. For it isn't true—what the palmist said—that man wants but little here below. He wants a great deal. He wants the woman to be cook, laundress, tutor, nurse, servant, companion, goddess of the household, and maid-of-all-work. Good cooking has spoiled a great many men's digestions; too much attention in all directions has utterly ruined as many more. Pampering is as bad as neglect, if not worse. In the opinion of some of the suffragettes, there has been altogether too much good cooking for the good of the world. Many a noble and gifted woman has slumped into a mere slave of the stove.

Good cooks are as pearls of great price. But it will be questioned whether the standard of the day's work would be elevated if culinary skill and enthusiasm were made one of the prerequisites of marriage.

Mr. Harriman says he selects brainy executives not by their dress but by the shapes of their heads. Can't E. H. H. suggest some new fall shape that will get us a job like his?

A Cornell expert fears that free hides mean the importation of millions of free germs, too. Congress can't take up the matter of putting a prohibitive tax on these germs a moment too soon.

In Italy moving pictures are being used to teach gunnery. We have often felt like "shooting up" some of them ourselves.

If this New York man gets an injunction against the crying of his neighbor's baby he will know what to do about that next door cat.

Benzene of soda is a harmless preservative. Let's give the forests of the country a good treatment.

The Jeffries-Johnson mill has gotten as far as the first comma.

We might accept all these cherry trees from Japan just to let future Presidents practice on.

We are glad the National Guard had a good time. They can now tuck away their uniforms and get into that daily battle that comes nearer filling General Sherman's famous definition than any war game, or war that isn't a game.

Harriman says he is not a speculator. What of this thrilling game of life and death he is playing?

"No more home-coming of our men in coffins," says an automobile dealer, in announcing the withdrawal of his cars from all track events. The men ought to be pleased with the new program.

"Wurzbarger wants Anheuser." Sounds like something good for the thirst sending out a "C. O. D." doesn't it. The answer is that one German is on the trail of another who captured his daughter.

Mr. Bryan has a tariff for revenue platform. Perhaps its production is the forerunner of his determination to stand upon it.

Police Commissioner Baker has cruelly shocked the police force of New York by refusing to abolish the methods of discipline established by Commissioner Bingham. That's a good start, Baker. Keep it up.

Surely there must be something wrong with the cables. We haven't heard of the establishment of a new aeroplane record in the last twenty minutes.

The Pure Food Convention merely handed Dr. Wiley a temporary job. Don't worry about him, for he is unequalled when it comes to hanging on.

Alfred Vanderbilt denies that he is dead. You can't tell, though; maybe he is reincarnated.

We want a record of the records.

DIAZ BIRTHDAY FETE MAY MARK OUTBREAK

Revolutionists Under General Reyes Are Expected to Take Advantage of Gala Occasion to Incite Populace Against Government.

There will be a general election. The administration ticket will be President Diaz and Vice President Corral. In the event of the death of Diaz, Corral would succeed to the Presidency. Reyes, realizing that he cannot be elected President at the polls, hopes to be in line of succession by becoming vice president. He has made no public declaration of this effect. In fact, he has announced from time to time that he is loyal to the administration. Strangely enough, however, a plot was devised to run him for the vice presidency sprang into life on the same day in every city and town in Mexico, showing that Reyes has a powerful organization behind him.

This movement has been making great headway. President Diaz is eliminated as a factor. It being conceded that his re-election cannot be prevented. The burden of the attack on the administration, therefore, is thrust at Vice President Corral, who also is minister of the interior. Because of his actions in the latter position Corral has incurred the hatred of the Reyes followers, who have created the slogan "Mexico for Mexicans." This is his capacity as minister of the interior Corral has granted liberal concessions to American deserters and refugees of money in developing the republic.

Corral is retreating by attacking the conduct of Reyes while that officer was minister of war and also during his present term of office. The campaign has become so bitter that already several hundred have been killed and scores wounded. The frequency of these fights has become so alarming that in some quarters there is fear that a revolution is in the air. Reyes is not a man of peace. He is a man of war. He is a man of action. He is a man of power. He is a man of influence. He is a man of wealth. He is a man of honor. He is a man of courage. He is a man of faith. He is a man of hope. He is a man of love.
